A FAIR AVERAGE.

One Mome Nine Wins a Game, but the Other Is Beaten.

A noticeable defect in the Union association games so far has been slack fielding. To this failing has been due several of the defeats sustained by the Nationals. But in Saturday's sustained by the Nationals. But in Saturday's game the boys gave evidence that practice and working together are beginning to produce good fruit in the way of improved fielding, McKenna, Voss, and McLaughlin only making errors. The latter player proved himself a valuable addition to the nine by batting finely and fielding at short stop in a style to show that one of the positions heretofore weak is now ably guarded. The home club rook the lead in the second inning by scoring took the lead in the second inning by scoring four runs, mainly through hard hitting, and from that point on had the game safely in hand. Wise and Sweeny both pitched effectively, as the list of strike-outs shows, but the ively, as the list of strike-outs shows, but the former had the best support. Fusselbach's throwing to second was greatly admired. Phelan played his usual fine game at second, and the same may be said of Evers. Moore, Tinney, Yoss, and McLaughlin did the best batting for the Nationals, as did Say and W. Sweeny for the Baitimores. The same clubs play to-day. This will be the Nationals' last game at home until they return from their western tour. The score follows:

The Washingtons in Saturday's game lost The Washingtons in Saturday's game lost their grip at a critical moment, and threw away a game already practically won from the noted Brocklyn team. Oddiy enough the errors that lost the game were confined to the outfielders, the infielders playing without an error throughout. In the ninth inning, with the score standing 4 to 2 in favor of the Washingtons, Kiley, Barr, and Beach, by a series of exacerating errors caye the of the Washingtons, Kiloy, Barr, and Beach, by a series of exasperating errors, gave the Brooklyns three runs and the game. The batting was light on both sides, Terry being especially effective. Hawkes played a beautiful game at second, and Fennelly at short, while King took in every ball that came his way. Fred Warner fielded and batted in great style for the visitors. The Washingtons play in Brooklyn Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, and at Princeton Thursday, returning home to cross bats with the Metropolitans, of New York, at Athletic park on Friday and Saturday. SUCCESSFUL POLICE RAID.

Inmates of the Marshall House Waked From Their Slumbers. An apparently drunken man lurked about the Marshall house, at the northeast corner of Eighth and D streets, last Saturday night. He watched the premises very closely, and counted the number of young men and women that went in. The watcher was not a drunken man. the number of young men and women that went in. The watcher was not a drunken man, however, he was Officer Cooper, of the fifth precinct, who was acting under instructions received from Lieut. Austin. The latter had been ordered by Maj. Dye to raid the establishment. The order stated that complaint had been made that the Marshall house was one of the lowest and vilest hawdy houses in Washington. About 10:30 o'clock the man who feigned drunkennoss communicated quickly with Officer Penney as the latter passed him. Officer Penney hurried to the nearest police alarm box and signaled the fifth station. In five minutes Sergt, Johnson, at the bead of nine patrolmen, arrived at the corner and surrounded the house. A moment later, and the officers were inside, busy securing the frightened inmates, all of whom except the proprietors, had retired for the night, Marshall escaped by jumping from a back window. His partner, a Scotchman, named James S. Graham, was captured. The officers collected their prisoners in the hallway. There were five men and seven women. Some of the latter were quite young and pretty. The whole party was marched to the station house, followed by a dense crowd of people. Some the females weep bitterly as they were held as United States. they gave their names—, and occupations. The females were mustry dressmakers and clerks. They were held as United States witnesses. Yesterday some of them were released on $20 collateral. Graham got out by putting up $100 as security for his appearance at the police court to-day. The police will probably, raid several other alleged hotels, but in fact concealed bawdy houses, before the week is over.
